Dear Colleagues:

Thank you for your enthusiastic response to the interest survey on publishing circulated by the Women's Studies Program. Virtually every topic that we suggested proved to have a significant constituency, and we shall attempt to address as many as possible over the coming months.

Denison faculty have a particularly strong interest in a workshop on publishing scholarly books. In conjunction with Rutgers University Press we have arranged for a presentation entitled "An Insider's View of University Publishing." It will take place on Thursday, October 24, 4-5:30 p.m., in the Faculty Lounge.

The speaker, Dr. Karen Reeds, is qualified to deal with the diverse publishing fields represented by our faculty. She has a Ph.D. in the History of Science from Harvard. She served as a generalist editor at the University of California Press, and she is currently an acquisitions editor at Rutgers. She has edited books in the natural sciences, social sciences, and humanities. Dr. Reed will talk about the acquisitions process, review procedures, and mutual expectations. As a scholar and editor she has seen both sides of the business. She will welcome your questions.

We invite you to participate in this first publishing workshop.

Yours sincerely,
