

2015

Some Small Comforts

Dominic J. Pfister
Denison University

Follow this and additional works at: <http://digitalcommons.denison.edu/exile>

Part of the Creative Writing Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Pfister, Dominic J. (2015) "Some Small Comforts," Exile: Vol. 61 : No. 1 , Article 15.
Available at: <http://digitalcommons.denison.edu/exile/vol61/iss1/15>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the English at Denison Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Exile by an authorized editor of Denison Digital Commons.

Some Small Comforts

By Dominic J. Pfister

Rotten onions, sticky and brown,
Lie cold on the bottom shelf
Of the open refrigerator downstairs.
The new potatoes too have decayed,
And they shoot up green stemmed sprouts
From their shriveled eyes toward
The incandescent hum of a jaundiced bulb.

Marie has to sleep with the light of the television,
And a propped window, or at least
A blowing fan. She takes comfort in the blank sound,
And although she wakes up cold, under
Thin sheets in the dullness of her room,
She always leaves the fan to make its formal arc,
And closes the window only in deep winter.